ADDITIONAL ACTIVITY

First month without Matt as a parachute, it's a good thing Sue B. was able to fill in the gaps. We have been trying to establish our own protocols. Still not proceeded as we expect to in the future on complaints, but contacted Guy and received the state guidelines for handling complaints so that when we start proceedings, and if they end up in court, we have done everything correctly so that the court doesn't ask us to start over. We have also spent some time trying to create some consistency in how we approach each case. CJ and I divided some of the requirements along the lines of our time, talents, and inclinations. She, at least for now, is going to RESP meetings, and I have gone to my first WQIP meeting. June, of course, was the month of our flash floods. I got acquainted with Lee Shurliff, who is the director of Emergency Response at the County. I also got to see how quickly the Town of Danby Highway Dept. was on the job clearing creeks and culverts, long before most of us knew the extent of what hit us, and well into the night dealing with many significant and dangerous situations.
